Hello!

Judi's House is thrilled to share our Family Bereavement Fellowship and honored you are interested in this opportunity. The overarching intention in creating this Fellowship is to expand the workforce to approach all aspects of practice with a grief- and trauma-informed lens.

Judi's House knows training in grief is not yet a requirement for many graduate and postgraduate clinical programs. We also know the likelihood of encountering clients who have grief or loss tied to their lived experience is inevitable. With a focus on comprehensive, systems-based training, the Family Bereavement Fellowship aims to instill confidence in early-career clinicians to create healing and connection for the bereaved on individual, familial, and societal levels.

Join us in advancing this important work! We encourage you to take time to learn more about our Family Bereavement Fellowship and to please reach out if there are any questions that arise as you complete your application.

Warmly,

Jamie Heindryckx, LPC

Assistant Director of Clinical Training
